TRYING TO MAKE IT

Was it that Bad?

the Past

Peabody opened doors September 3 to Enrollment of 1442 students!

If you liked being around people, then Peabody Junior High was the place to be on the first day of school 1974. 1442 students pushed, nudged, squeezed, oozed, bumped, shoved and zapped their way into school on September 3. The enrollment steadily increased until by mid-year there were 1470 students.

A faculty staff of 117 was on hand to welcome the crowd. The school had been painted and repairs made. Fifteen new teachers, two new teacher aides, two new assistant principals and a full time school nurse had been added to the staff.

As the calendar moved from September to March, everyone adjusted to the football games, basketball games, baseball games, pep rallies, Script days, the noise factor, the heat, the cold, buses, no buses, and the routine. School biz was right on schedule.

WHO'S IN A RUSH?

STOP . . .

The time has come for a final accounting:

to record the pep rallies, the dances and the assemblies that mark the momentum of our year,

to wash the dabs of poster paint from our shoes and to contemplate the chemistry of water, and paint, and posters, and people, and our year at Peabody.

Administrative Staff Enlarged

The Peabody Administrative staff consisted of our principal, Mr. Albert Jones and three assistants, Mrs. G. Fauntleroy, Mr. J. Porach and Mr. N. Ramsey. Mr. Jones had the huge responsibility of overseeing the entire educational program of the school, seeing parents and arranging schedules. Mrs. Fauntleroy worked with student activities, substitute teachers and curriculum; Mr. Porach assisted students with lockers, worked with the textbook rental program and assisted with discipline while Mr. Ramsey worked with assembly programs, the cafeteria staff, and assisted with discipline. The job of directing meaningful activities for our school was tremendous. As principal, Mr. Jones, and the rest of the administrative staff, maintained a close relationship with the students, they became involved with individual students by listening to their personal problems as well as rendering advice on many matters. Although their jobs kept them busy, the administrative staff participated in clubs, activities, and classes. They worked with the Student Council and parents. In cooperation with the faculty, they worked to develop strong relationships with everyone at Peabody.

Secretaries Brought Ray of Light to Office

Mrs. Mary G. Wilson, Finance

The secretarial staff performed many functions this year. The executive and financial secretary, Mrs. Wilson took care of financial transactions; Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Harris were the main office secretaries; Mrs. Peterson was the attendance secretary; Miss Lemons, the guidance secretary; Mrs. Dudley worked with the library staff; Mrs. Hite worked in the office of Williams Annex while Miss Guthery and Miss Orr were student secretaries working with Mr. Ramsey and Mrs. Fauntleroy.

Guidance Counselors Helped Us Make Decisions

The counselors of Peabody Jr. High helped the students change classes, courses and make decisions which would further the education of our students. Students have many interests, abilities, and desires. These factors must be considered when scheduling is done. Of equal importance are the views of the parents of the students. Suffice it to say that the course and class planning for every student is a cooperative venture involving the student, his parents, and his counselor. Without these students, we would have been lost.

Mrs. Sheffield consulted parent

Mr. Blue planned schedules

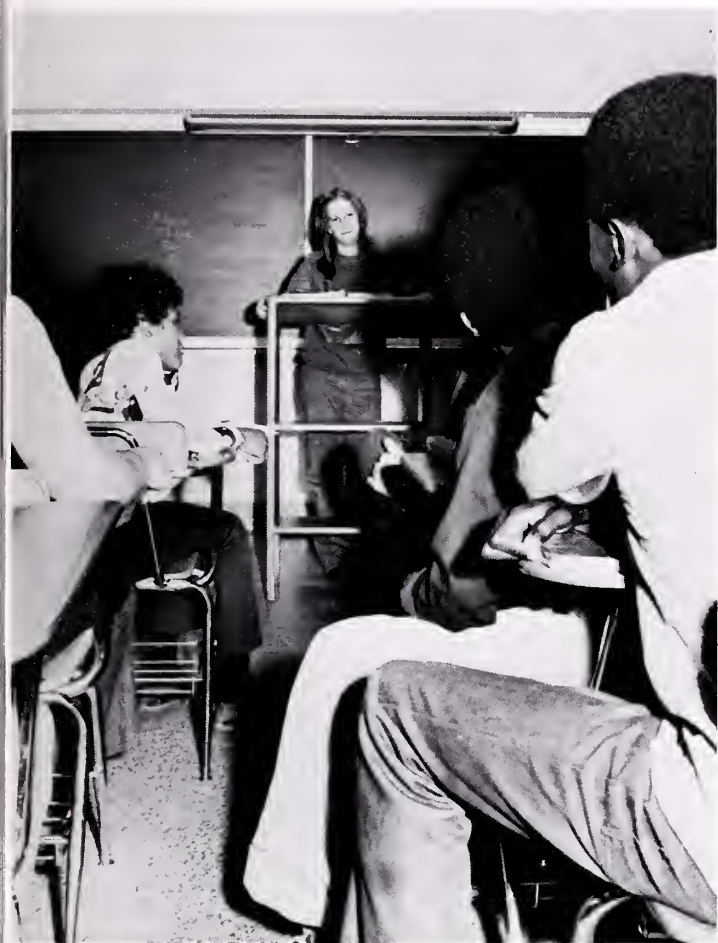

Rita Powell listened while Mrs. McKenzie pointed out alternatives

Mrs. Smith talked with Toni Latham about her schedule

English and History Widened Communication

Robin Sanders delivered her speech

Imaginations were "turned on" in the Reading Lab for Kim White, Wesley Spriggs, Danny Blowe, and Wendy West by Mrs. Rose, teacher, and Mrs. Siedow, aide.

"Would you believe the world is round?" Mr. Barksdale questioned his students.

Science and Math Sparked Imaginations

Safety goggles were used by Reginald Bell as Mrs. Smith explained experiment to John Nunally, Phillip Hall and Gary Hobbs.

Allied Arts Supplemented Basics

The Art Classes worked hard and played hard this year. Art 1 is a basic introductory course including: drawing, water color and more; Art 2 including drawing and related media; Art 3 has 3 dimensional works and crafts and Art 4 is painting - oils and acrylics. There were two student teachers helping Mrs. Witt and Mrs. Hopson; Mr. Grance and Mr. Nixon. Some of the activities of the classes were: they visited Richard Bland College to see an art exhibit and they made papier maché animals which they donated to the Baptist Childrens' Home.

Mrs. Witt's class worked diligently on designs.

Mrs. Caldwell asked students how they did assignment without paper.

Library and Reading Centers Proved Resourceful

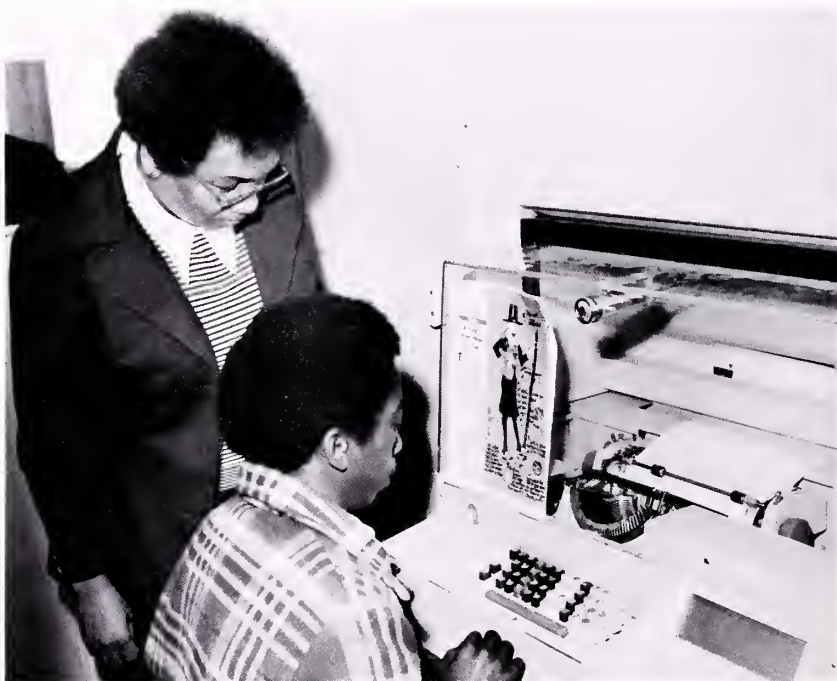

Janet Young checked out book while other students did research.

The ESAA (Emergency School Aid Act) Reading Center here at Peabody Junior High is made possible under the ESAA which created a program designed to provide financial assistance in the implementation of quality integrated educational programs for public school children.

The ESAA Center is designed to help students to improve their reading skills. The program focuses on individualized and small-group instruction, implemented in a rich learning environment.

Different techniques and methods are used for instruction. Learning too is provided by the machines used. Some of the machines used to improve reading are Aud-X, Tach-X, Controlled reader, tape recorder and tape cassettes. These are used to improve comprehension, phonetic and structural analysis, study skills, and vocabulary which are essential to reading. Students suggest activities and enjoy group discussions, pleasurable reading in the library and from the classroom library of paperbacks and magazines, viewing film and filmstrips, playing reading games, sharing books, sharing news articles.

Tony Mayfield learned to use reading machine as Mrs. Edwards checked his progress.

A Clean School and Good Food Helped

Mr. Lawrence, Building Foreman, placed call for repairs.

Custodian Staff: Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Tucker, Mr. Freeman, Mr. Walker, Mr. Wright.

LISTEN . . .

To the ideas that clamor for attention
amid the questions begging for answers and the lectures longing to be heard.
Above it all, listen for the laughter - delicious, bubbling laughter!

Students Had a Variety of Activities

Mr. Davis and student put up bulletin board.

Art students worked hard at their projects.

Student looked for quiet corner in the library.

"Shoot, Carolyn, Shoot; Guard, Debbie, Guard," yelled girls' gym class.

Student Body Was Represented by Student Council

The Student Council got a great start this year, with the sale of pompoms and booster buttons. Some of the projects the S.C.A. accomplished were: sponsoring an orphan, the Harvest Ball, movies, Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets and the attendance problem. The Representatives have been the main voice of the school, demonstrating such problems as: buses leaving early, cafeteria complaints, juke box, and not enough activities. Some of the end of the year - coming events are the: Valentine's Dance, Follies, Prom, and 9th Grade Week.

Literary Interests Were Provided for

The voice of Peabody can you Guess what it was? The Script. The Script Staff was very efficient with its officers: Connie Daniel, Editor; Betty Scott, Associate Editor; Grady Powell Jr., Tereska Roberts, Michelle Branch, Florence Beasley, and John Jackson. The news was on time with hardworking reporters Ruth Powell, Amy Coberly, Bernetta Griffin, Debbie Poole, Melvina Leech, Ann Herring, Billy Piaseck, Shelton Lanier, Janette Young, Deborah Stalling, Lyda Burnette, Norene Todt, Jovannie Lewis, Curtis Massey, and Mel Talley.

The purpose of the Literary Club was to encourage individuals to read and discuss books, to help students have a purpose for their reading and to know how to read to accomplish this purpose, and to increase the reading power of the student.

FBLA and VICA Actively Served PHS

FBLA Membership 1974-75: President - Stephanie White, Vice President - Barbara Ellison, Secretary - Annette Lee, Treasurer - Sylvia Mayfield, Reporter - Cassandra Walker, Historian - Angie Calhoun, Parliamentarian - Darlene Booth. Dorian Booker, Darlene Booth, Angie Calhoun, Justine Cooper, Barbara Ellison, Brenda Emory, Janice Fisher, Tracy Flowers, Cynthia Hanford, Gregory Harris, Henrietta Hill, Dorian Howard, Annette Lee, Patricia Malone, Sylvia Mayfield, Janice McKeever, Barbara Miller, Cathy Phillips, Debbie Poole, Debbie Sharpe, Frazette Spencer, Jan Tavel, Elester Taylor, Wanda Taylor, Patricia Tazewell, Cassandra Walker, Teresa Wheeler, Stephanie White, Annette Wiggins, Connie Williams, Janice Winslow, Billy Wyche.

The Peabody FBLA, during 1974-1975, has participated in a national spelling contest and a national arithmetic contest. We have also worked on an emblem for our club and mounted it on a poster for our meeting room. In December we had Mrs. Nancy Shelton from the home economics department talk to us and show us how to make "poodles" out of puffs of yarn. Members are making these for either personal desire or for Christmas presents. Along with the national organization of FBLA, we will be selling trash bags for project "HELP" which is fund raising for the March of Dimes to fight birth defects. The fund-raising project for our local club is selling candy which will be done during December and January.

The FBLA group sponsors a Miss or Mr. FBLA contest and award and also presents an award to the member earning the most amount of money for the group.

The officers and executive board members of the VICA club have been making plans to tour the Norfolk Vocational Center in the Spring. This trip will provide our students in VICA the opportunity to become familiar with what student-learners in the Tidewater area are doing, and will enable them to compare how classroom instruction is being related to technical and vocationally oriented occupations.
